Facts About a Famous Place and Its Distinguished Mistress.

Details of Her Loss of the Property and Her Opportunity to Regain It,

FRIENDS COME TO HER AID

Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase, were raisto regain possession of Edgewood, the famous country residence of the Chase family, beyond Eckington, has created a great deal of interest in Washington, where the brilliant woman is so well known, and where she was for years the undisputed queen of society. The published statement goes on to say that a number of gentlemen prominent in Ohio and New York, including Senator Brice, William C. Whitney, C. S. Sorg and John Wanamaker, had determined to subscribe to a fund of $50,000 for the purposes indicated above. A great many people who have kept track of the mes of Mrs. Chase, and who knew that the Edgewood property had already that the Edgewood property had already been sold at auction under the provisions of a deed of trust, were somewhat surprised at the publication, believing, as they did, that Edgewood had passed beyond the possibility of being recovered by its former owner. Such, however, is not the case; and a statement of the facts connected with the mortgaging of Edgewood and the subsequent foreclosing of the obligation will be found interesting at this time.

She Borrows $30,000.

·Edgewood originally consisted of a trac containing about fifty-two acres. Several years ago Mrs. Chase sold eighteen acres of the property lying to the west. This of the property lying to the west. This left thirty-four acres in the tract surrounding the mansion. Some years later Mrs. Chase found herself confronted with a necessity for funds. While she had inherited her father's brilliant mental attainments she had not imbibed any of his shrewd financial 'wisdom. She indulged in careless speculations and undertook improvements as well as enterprises on her Edgewcod farm that cost large sums of money and falled to reach completion in the first place or remuneration in the last. So four years ago she borrowed $30,000 from the Washington Loan and Trust Company, to secure which she gave a deed of trust upon the property, with Mr. Albert A. Wilson and Mr. John B. Larner, as trustees. This money went, unfortunately, the way of the large sums she had spent before. Some time later, therefore, Mrs. Chase secured a further loan from the Washington Loan and Trust Company of $6,000. From the time the first loan had been negotiated she had padd none of the taxes or other expenses connected with the property, and had padd no part of the principal or any portion of the interest on the loans. There being no prospect of her rability to relieve herself of her burden, it was decided by the directors of the trust company that the mortgage should be foreclosed, and in accordance with this action Edgewood was advertised for sale last December. left thirty-four acres in the tract surround-

There were one or two postponement Mr. Needham of the firm of Cotton & Needm, who, together with Mr. Benjamin F. Butterworth, are the attorneys for Mrs Chase, was present at the sale, and before the bidding began read a protest against its consummation, and warning prospective bidders that the proceedings were not in accordance with law. This action had the effect of preventing several individuals present from carrying out their intention of bidding on the property, but was not sufficient to keep Mr. John Joy Edson, the president of the Washington Loan and Trust Company, from bidding it in for that institution at a figure between $43,000 and $44,000, which represented the indebtedness due from Mrs. Chase to the trust company and guarinteed by the mortgage. Thase, was present at the sale, and before and guaranteed by the mortgage

Kind Treniment of Mrs. Chase Financial institutions are seldom senti mental, but in the present instance the trust company, feeling that Mrs. Chase was the daughter of a most distinguished for her to reclaim, with the assistance of her friends, the home so dear to her, decided to show Mrs. Chase the consideration it believed to be her due. Consequently as soon as the deed conveying the property to the Washir gton Loan and Trust Company had been properly made out and the title of the itstitution in the property further strengthened by a quit-c'aim deed, which was given by Mrs. Chase, it was decided that the latter should be given an option on the property extending to February 1, 1896, by which she would be allowed to purchase it from the Washington Loan and Trust Company at the actual amount represented by the sum of her indebtedness and the interest thereon to the time of such repurchase. for her to reclaim, with the assistance of such repurchase A few weeks ago the friends of the late Chief Justice Chase determined to preserve the property at Edgewood for his accomplished daughter, and a movement was inaugurated by them to raise the sum of inaugurated by them to raise the sum of $50,000, which would be sufficient to pay off the indebtedness on the estate and allow Mrs. Chase a few thousand dollars for other purposes. Chief among the promoters of this object were ex-Secretary Whitney, his brother-in-law, Mr. Oliver Payne, and Governor Levi P. Morton. Those familiar with the intimate details of the matter said last week that $23,000 had already been raised, and that the remainder would be crithcoming as soon as Mrs. Chase agreed to certain conditions. It is understood that the gentlemen who are interestagreed to certain conditions. It is understood that the gentlemen who are interested in the raising of the fund are convinced that Mrs. Chase cannot of herself manage the property in the best and most businesslike manrer, and that they desire to make the fund something in the nature of a trust, so that the property cannot be disposed of by Mrs. Chase herself, but will be controlled by the trustees selected by the subscribers. It is said Mrs. Chase at present rebels against any conditions being imposed upon her management of the estate in the future, and that there is some delay in the matter owing to this feeling on her in the future, and that there is some delay in the matter owing to this feeling on her part. There is believed to be no doubt, however, that she will realize the wisdom of her friends and submit to their arrange-ment of her affairs in regard to Edgewood. HUNTING A MAN.

Police and Citizens in Chase of Mrs. Hall's Assailant. Despite the fact that Sergeant Anderson of the Anacostia substation, with Policemen Allen and the two colored men, William Simms and William Miller, Saturday, as stated in The Star would be done by the officers, made a most careful search through Pencote woods, where the unknown colored man who had so brutally assaulted Mrs. Lucy Hall, colored, Saturday, July 13, had been seen by several colored women, the scoundrel was not found, and it is believed that he in some round, and it is believed that he in some way learned that the policemen were looking for him and left his hiding place some time before their arrival.

ler of Garfield that the man wanted had gone to Shipley's woods, a tract of land fully as large and as gloomy as that of Percote. Sergeant Anderson at once rode to Miller's house, but as soon as the latter got a glimpse of the sergeant he took to his heels, presuming, it is supposed, that Sergeant Anderson wanted to arrest him. As it was important for the sergeant to see Miller the former chased him on his horse, over fences and through ravines for fully half an hour before capturing him. When told why the sergeant wanted to see him Miller was much relieved, and gladly accompanied the officer to Shipley's woods. Here also a thorough search was made, but without successful result, and after the hunt had been abandoned for the day the officers were informed that the day the officers were informed that the man had left Shipley's woods several bours before they had reached there.

It is thought altogether probable that the fellow will be captured very shortly. Two Americans named Wing and Dwight

Immeditely after their marriage the duke will take his bride to Mexico. The future duchess will, however, spend next winter with her father, preparatory to taking a trip to to the queen regent and to the family of her husband, who is now at its head. The

The latter has left a large fortune to be divided equally between her son and daughter and many elegant jewels, which will adorn the future duchess. The culmination of the international remanes which adorn the future duchess. The culmination of this international romance, which dates back to Count Brunetti's connection with the Spanish legation, has brought pleasure to many who only know the couple slightly as well as those who hold them in close friendship. After the count's return as Duke d'Arcos last spring his devotion for so many years was rewarded by the consent of the parents of his bride-elect, the announcement of their engagement and the settling of the wedding day for June, when all was again upset by the lilness and death of Mrs. Lowery. The wedding how, as the family are in mourning, will necessarily be quiet, but will be attended by the Spanish minister and other diplomatic friends of the couple.
